A BRIDE OF THE SUMMER.

MISS SALLY GARLINGTON.

Whose engagement to Lieut. Harry Chamberlin is announced.

When carrying out the quaint and demure manners of those days, along with their hoop skirts and stiff little bouquets. It was a practical illustration of the old Southern hospitality, with Mrs. Marshall the ideal hostess, as though she had stepped out of the '70s to show how gracefully things could be done. And she wore to perfection the soft, snuff-colored silk gown broadened in detail pink flowers, with the same point lace and cameo, which her great-aunt wore to President Pierce's inaugural ball, when she accompanied her distinguished father, Senator Colquhoun, of Georgia, the father of Mrs. Marshall's father, who was also Senator Colquhoun, when she was a girl. Gen. Marshall is a great-nephew of the first Chief Justice of the United States, and theirs was quite the prettiest ball of the season of 1812.

The Junior Republic League has plans for a unique affair for the benefit of the republic, and there are other charities arranging for novel entertainments, one in which the gowns and adornments of famous women of this country will be exhibited for one of the popular and fashionable charities, plans for which are still in embryo. Gowns of a number of former mistresses of the White House, Cabinet women, and others which have been preserved intact by their families have already been promised.

It is early to speak of Easter festivities when the Lenten season has not dawned, but plans in Washington must be made early. The first dance to be announced for Easter week is that of the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Meyer, which will be held on April 4 (Easter Monday). This is postponed from tomorrow evening, owing to Mrs. Meyer's enforced absence from the city because of the injuries received by her son while consulting at their summer home, Hamilton, Mass. The Misses Meyer returned here, to remain with the Secretary during their mother's absence.

Mrs. Taft entertained the members of the Cabinet circle and a few of her personal friends at a musicale yesterday afternoon, when Alice Neilson gave a song recital, accompanied by Rosaline Simmons on the piano. Miss Katherine Anderson, niece of Mrs. Taft, arrived at the White House yesterday for a visit. Her sister, Miss Harriet Anderson, has spent some weeks there this season, and is now visiting in New York. Miss Taft was the dinner guest last evening of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Legare, the guests going afterward to the dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ingalls for their daughter, Miss Gladys Ingalls.

The programme was as follows: "Vol te s'apete," "Naxos di Figaro," Mozart; "Im Kabin," Grieg; "Du bist wie eine Blume," Schumann; "Niedelied," Grieg; "Für Off I Hear a Lover's Foot," Cadman; "Love Has Wings," Rogers; "Down in the Forest," Ronald; Miss Nielsen; Polonaise, Chopin; Mr. E. R. Ryan; Stomacher, mandolin, Debussy; "Pineapple," Chabrier; "Si me v'as ardent des ailes," Hahn; "Valse d'Arct," Toccata, Puccini; Miss Nielsen.

Mrs. Taft, in addition to the many claims on her time and strength, is giving freely of both to the Washington branch of the woman's welfare department of the National Civic Federation and its practical work in the District of Columbia. She has been an attendant at the Wednesday morning lectures given in the ballroom of the British Embassy, at Mrs. A. I. Pearson's, or at Mrs. H. Wadsworth's, these three hostesses having leased their homes to the welfare department for the season. Mrs. Archibald Hopkins is chairman of the committee, with Mrs. John Hayes Hammond, Mrs. Mollie McCormick, and Miss Wetmore as able coadjutors.

The speakers on topics pertinent to the work of the association, all recognized authorities on their respective subjects, include Mr. A. A. Pratt, Mr. John Andrew, Mr. H. A. Hays, of New York; Miss Jane Adams, and Dr. Alice Hamilton, of Chicago, and Dr. Harvey Wiley, of this city.

The speaker of the House of Representatives and Mrs. Champ Clark, as they ride about in taxicab or the still more modest little herdic peculiar to Washington's broad avenues, are splendid examples of consistency. When the Sixtieth Congress voted an up-to-date automobile and all its attendant expenses for the use of the speaker of the House, the then leader of the minority, Representative Clark, of Missouri, opposed with all his eloquence and his one vote. This political economist was not talking solely for Bowling Green, as shown by the fact that the aforementioned automobile in which Uncle Joe Cannon, his daughter, and her friends were daily passengers, now stands out of commission in the Capitol garage. The present leader has not brought his pair of mules to Washington. He makes his daily journey from his sixteenth street residence to Capitol Hill by street car, leaving even the taxi and the herdic for purely social purposes.

A private car frequently at Mrs. Clark's disposal. Mrs. Clark, Mrs. B. Handerson, wife of the former Senator from Missouri, and the social sponsor of the Clark's in resident circles. Mrs. Clark is even more democratic than her husband, is fully maintaining the dignity of her position, and although accepting few invitations, she has rallied about her a serious, agreeable circle of women from the official and the resident world.

The taking possession of their new embassy by the Russian Ambassador and Mrs. Bakmeteff, with the selection of Newport as a place of residence for the coming summer by the German Embassy, are significant happenings in diplomatic circles of the year future.

The Russian Ambassador and Mrs. Bakmeteff will in another month be under their own roof. With the installation of the many household goods and goods still unpacked, this residence will be one of the best appointed in Washington and a bound-to-be center for all smart society. Mrs. Bakmeteff, who, since her girlhood days as Miss Mamie Beale, a great Washington belle, has known the smart world of half a dozen capitals, in returning to her native city is being welcomed by every set and circle of its many-aided society, to be uniformly popular with old and new friends.

The Ambassador and wife have no children, but in the young people of the Capital claiming close kinship with the popular Ambassador are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Beale Bloomer, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Ward, all of whom have grown up in Washington. Mr. Frederick H. Bugher, of New York is a nephew of Mrs. Bakmeteff, as also is the young son of Mr. Harriet Hulse Beale, the former wife of Mr. Truxton Beale.

Although the German Embassy will be established at Newport in July, its chief will not precede there, as the Ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff propose sailing for Europe early in the summer, a sign in diplomatic circles that no imperial German visitors may be expected to grace America by every set and circle of its many-aided society, to be uniformly popular with old and new friends.
